... from Mr. Moore's Desk

Greetings Parents & Scholars:

I pray that your weekend was great!

This past week was a week full of engaging work and assessments based upon the Quoting Accurately standard. I am pleased that as a whole 5th grade is grasping this standard. Last week fun engaging centers were introduced into the rotation and I believe that it will serve as a great learning opportunity and possibly cut down on distractions. Our babies seemed to love them.

This week will be focusing on figurative language which falls under the determining meaning of words standard. They are in for a treat. Official school progress report go home and I wish to thank those of you who spoke to our babies about their progress on my report as it has worked wonders and many grades went up due to studying and getting on i-Ready!!!!

Again as always, I thank each of you for entrusting your scholar to me and it will payoff come April/May and beyond.

Have a blessed week,

Mr. Moore

Reading Stamina Information

Having stamina for something means being able to stick with something for periods of time. This stamina, or endurance, builds strength. Stamina can apply to lots of different areas, such as exercise or painting. It can also apply to reading. Teachers often think about a student's reading stamina. Reading stamina is a child's ability to focus and read independently for long periods of time without being distracted or without distracting others. Reading stamina is something that parents can help students develop. As your child moves further into the year, developing reading stamina will help your child navigate the longer texts and assignments. Please enforce that your child reads daily for a minimum of 30 -45 minutes, Monday thru Sunday.

Williams Word

Parents,

I hope that you all enjoyed a wonderful weekend!

I am continuously impressed by our scholars each week. They are working so hard and I am very proud of them!

This week we will be focusing on figurative language for our FSA focus lesson. Mr. Moore and I have chosen specific videos, lessons, and worksheets to help prepare the students for these questions on the FSA test. We are confident that separating time from our regular reading lesson for this will help them succeed on their tests!

I want to give a huge shout-out to the students for working so hard in our new center rotation we began last week! We had small group lessons and introduced some new reading games. The students worked together so well. Mr. Moore and I were so proud!

Each week I am blessed by your children and am still so excited to learn and grow with them!

Thank you all for your continued support! Have a wonderful week.
