... from Mr. Moore's Desk

Greetings Parents & Scholars:

As always, I pray that your weekend was great! As you know this past weekend was a weekend filled with emotions for my family and I. I thank GOD for being able to return safely to Jacksonville last night.

This week we will continue focusing on multiple accounts of the same event. It will be a week of rigorous learning. i-Ready is still a major focal point that you could help with when they are at home. Please ensure that they are getting on i-Ready for a minimum of seven minutes daily. In addition to i-Ready, it is crunch time and it is imperative that our scholars read nightly in a quiet place for 45 minutes. After that reading session ask them a few basic questions and have them complete the documentation of their reading.

Next week is Spring Break and of course the scholars will not be in school, but it does not mean that learning ceases. There will be an expectation of learning that evolves around affixes. Further information to come. Please help us to help our scholars by enforcing that required work over the break. .

Have a blessed week!!!

Mr. Moore

Communication Reminders:

Parents, please remember to send in headphones with your scholars

Incentive Reward Request

3rd Nine Weeks Request:

I am asking that each child bring in a bag or two of candy, chips, individual cookies and/or fruit snacks for our classroom reward containers which are given out as incentive for when the scholar goes above and beyond.

Weekly Learning Standard

This week we will be changing standards and working primarily on the following standard:

LAFS5.RI.2.6

Reading Stamina Information

Having stamina for something means being able to stick with something for periods of time. This stamina, or endurance, builds strength. Stamina can apply to lots of different areas, such as exercise or painting. It can also apply to reading. Teachers often think about a student's reading stamina. Reading stamina is a child's ability to focus and read independently for long periods of time without being distracted or without distracting others. Reading stamina is something that parents can help students develop. As your child moves further into the year, developing reading stamina will help your child navigate the longer texts and assignments. Please enforce that your child reads daily for a minimum of 30 -45 minutes, Monday thru Sunday.

Williams Word

Hi Parents,

I hope that you all had a great weekend. We are one week away from Spring Break!

This week we will be moving into studying a new story in the Text Collection during our whole group lesson. We will be focusing on things like main idea, reasons, and evidence. The students have been working really well together in groups, and I am excited to see their group work improve even more this week!

We will be working this week on Independent Reading Accountability with the students. Please support us by reminding your child the importance of independent reading and the importance of reading one book from start to finish. We will be discussing different strategies/organizers to help the scholars keep track of their independent reading during class time.

I am so proud of each and every one of your scholars. We are continuing to learn and grow each week!

Thank you so much for your support.

Ms. Williams
