Important Announcements

Mr. Moore would still like for everyone to send in treats for classroom incentives.

Greetings Parents & Scholars:

These past few weeks have been full of rigorous lessons, both in whole group and small group. We have been concentrating on vocabulary and you will begin to see a lot of affix work coming home. Please review the affixes with our scholars as it will go a long way to recognizing unknown words when they have prefixes.

This week we will be focusing on multiple accounts of the same event. It should be a week of rigorous learning. i-Ready is still a major focal point that you could help with when they are at home. Please ensure that they are getting on i-Ready for a minimum of seven minutes daily. In addition to i-Ready, it is crunch time and it is imperative that our scholars read nightly in a quiet place for 45 minutes. After that reading session ask them a few basic questions and have them complete the documentation of their reading.

The scholars will be going on The World of Nations Field Trip this Friday so be sure to send them with their fee and any additional monies needed for souvenirs.

Again as always, we thank each of you for entrusting your scholar to me and it will pay off come April/May and beyond.

Have a blessed week!!!

Mr. Moore & Mr. Bacon

AGGIE Account

Please remember that we have approximately six weeks before the writing assessment, which in essence means that we must put the pedal to the road and understand that these weeks will be more challenging and rigorous. A sense of urgency must be met and we all must rise to the challenge of making it happen. Parents, I really need you to enforce the work I send home, as well as limit video time, and sticking to a strict bedtime routine. Our scholars must read nightly for 45 minutes and complete at least 7 minutes of i-Ready nightly.

RATTLER Release

Parents please be advised that Saturday school is taking place each and every Saturday unless otherwise posted. This opportunity could be the momentum needed to help students reach their individual academic goals. Study Island and IREADY at home are still required for students to be able to close grade level gaps and or to stay ahead.
